The Evening News.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The convention adjourned yesterday shortly after noon until 7:30 o'clock p. m. At 7:35 Chairman Henderson called the convention to order. The secretary read a communication from the committee on credentials, notifying the convention that owing to important business before it, they would not be able to report this evening.

Mr. Curtis, of New York, presented a petition from the American Peace Union which was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Matthews, of Illinois, offered a resolution to furnish 500 tickets of admission to veteran soldiers, and asked for unanimous consent to adopt it.

A delegate from Pennsylvania moved to amend the resolution by adding, "and that they be distributed according to the representation upon the floor of this convention to the chairmen of the various delegations."

General Clayton, of Arkansas, who was one of the members of the sub-committee who had charge of the apportionment of seats, said that every seat was provided for by tickets and that tickets were issued sufficient to fill every seat in the hall. He did not know where the soldiers are to be seated. The seats are not occupied till the time, and that the veterans might occupy them till called for by the owners.

After further discussion the resolution was lost, and the convention adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

IN SESSION.

The convention was called to order at 10:45 o'clock and was opened with prayer by Bishop Fallows, of the Reformed Episcopal church. He prayed that those who might be selected by this convention for the loftiest political positions to which mortal men can aspire, shall possess every qualification of body, mind and heart for their high and holy trusts. That personal preferences and interests should yield to the just demands of a true and broad patriotism, and that a final satisfaction of the choice should be made by the people in an unmistakable manner.

SEATING THE CONTESTANTS.

The committee on credentials concluded its labors at 2 o'clock this morning and voted to admit the Mahone delegation from Virginia. In the fourth Maryland district the sitting members, R. W. Jordan and H. W. Rogers, both for Blaine, were seated; in the sixth New York, John J. O'Brien and John H. Brady were seated; in the nineteenth New York, James Lamb and Henry Hook were seated; in the twenty-first Pennsylvania, J. E. Sayers was admitted; in the twenty-second Pennsylvania, Chris. L. Mudge and William Flynn were admitted. The Tennessee contest was held over for action this morning.

THE CONTESTED DISTRICTS.

Henry Bullard, of Vermont, chairman of the committee on credentials, reported that the session of the committee had been almost continuous, leaving the members no time to rest. He took pleasure in saying that the proceedings had been entirely harmonious and had no reference to personal preferences. The result was a unanimous report which was received with applause. The report of the committee on credentials was read by Mr. Fort, of New Jersey. It was to the effect that the sitting members in all the contested cases are entitled to their seats except in the case of the nineteenth district of New York, and the Fifth district of Kentucky, where both delegates and contestants are admitted to cast a ball vote each. In the Virginia case the committee found unanimously that the delegation headed by Senator Mahone was entitled to their seats. The report was adopted without discussion.

Parks, of California, from the committee on rules, reported that the committee had adopted substantially the rules of the last convention, except that it recommended the adoption of Cushing's Manual as the parliamentary law of the body instead of the rules of the house of representatives, except that the previous question is to be in force as in the house.

Grow, of Pennsylvania, from the minority of the committee, offered a substitute for the tenth rule, which prescribed the mode of electing delegates to the national republican convention. He proposes that delegates shall be elected in the same manner as members of congress. Parks accepted the proposed amendment. The rules were then adopted.

The attention of Senator Sabin having been called to the published statement, originating in Minnesota, that he was elected a delegate to the national convention on the pledge or supposition that he would support Blaine. He remarked that on the contrary no such issue was made, and it had been known for years that his first choice had been Arthur, and on the ground that he would be strong before the people. He said he was friendly to Blaine, but that he had been assured by a friend of ex-Senator Blaine that he was not only not a candidate but did not want to be a candidate. Then had been no doubt about his preference anywhere, he was not tied to anyone and would exercise his best judgment in aiding the selection of a candidate who could be elected.

Parks offered an additional rule as to the order of business.

Bayne, of Pennsylvania, offered an amendment to it so as to make the

1. Report of the committee on platform and resolutions.
2. The call of the roll of states.
3. Presentation of candidates for president.
4. Balloting.
5. Presentation of candidates for vice president.
6. Balloting.

The amendment was agreed to and the additional rule accepted.

Roosevelt, of New York, inquired what had become of the proposition in regard to representation in future national conventions. Parks, of California, chairman of the committee on rules, said that the subject had been withheld till a minority report should be prepared.

Thurston, of Nebraska, moved to amend the seventh rule, which provides for the nomination by a majority of all the delegates. He said that no rule should be enforced by which a majority of duly elected delegates attempt to enforce a candidate upon the party. Such action should be repudiated by the freemen of America. (Applause.)

Sanders, of Montana, offered an amendment that no person shall be eligible as a member of the national committee who is not eligible as a member of the electoral college.

Hoar, of Massachusetts, made an explanation as to the effect of the civil service law, passed by congress two or three years ago, and said it was not the purpose of that law to prohibit any federal officers from exercising all the rights of an American citizen.

The amendment offered by Sanders was adopted, also the amendment offered by Thurston, of Nebraska, after some verbal modifications. This disposed of the question as to the representation in future conventions, that subject being withheld, came up.

Parks, of California, then made a report as to the appointment of delegates for future conventions. It directs that each state shall be entitled to four delegates at-large with two additional delegates for each member of congress at large, if any; that each territory and the District of Columbia shall be entitled to two delegates, and each congressional district shall be entitled to two delegates.

Bishop, of Massachusetts, on behalf of the minority of the committee, reported a rule that each state shall be entitled to four delegates at-large and one additional delegate for each representative at-large. That each territory and the District of Columbia shall be entitled to two delegates, that each congressional district shall be entitled to one delegate for every 10,000 majority votes or fraction thereof, cast for the republican presidential electoral ticket at the last preceding presidential election and the republican national committee shall, within a year after each presidential election, certify the representation to which each state is entitled.

Carver, of Indiana, supported the minority report.

Bradley, of Kentucky, opposed the minority report as something that might come from the democratic party, but not from the republican party. There had been times when the south had saved the republican party. It was Florida that gave them the president in 1876. He warned the republican party that the tariff question was coming up before the country, and the time might come when the northern states might want the aid of the south. The southern delegates came here as free men not as slaves. They did not ask to dictate nominations but they declined to surrender their manhood. The report of the minority on rules changing representation was withdrawn.

The majority report was then adopted.

CONVENTION NOTES.

The Hon. Robert Stratton, of this city, acted as doer-keeper at the secret meetings of the Indiana delegation.

NOT DOWN ON THE PROGRAM.

An exaggerated account was published this morning of an encounter last night between George Turner and Brewster Cameron, of Pennsylvania, a nephew of the attorney general. The altercation grew out of the report made by Cameron, as special agent of the department of justice, into the accounts of Paul Stroback, assistant to Turner. When the men met in the rotunda of the hotel last night Turner struck Cameron with his fist and the latter retaliated with his cane. Outside parties then interfered and no further collision occurred.

THE FIELD—STILL TALKING OF SHERMAN.

It is reported that the Blaine managers have resolved to endeavor to break the policy of delay heretofore pursued by the Arthur and Edmunds managers, and to push matters to a conclusion. While arguing stoutly in committees they will content themselves with that and not invite resistance in open convention. This seems to be their best plan. They also hope to defeat the independents by inducing the Arthur men who are opposed to a dark horse to come to Blaine on some late ballot.

Col. N. A. Reed, of the Centralia Sentinel, said to a representative of the Associated Press, this morning, that "all talk about General Sherman not being a candidate is a humbug." Col. L. M. Dayton, of Cincinnati, who was the general's personal and most confidential staff officer, is in the city and has been circulating extensively among the members of the Loyal Legion, of whom there are a great number in the city. Col. Dayton said: "I know that General Sherman had never penned any such dispatch as it was rumored he had done, saying that he would not serve as president of the United States, even though he was nominated. This position is this: General Sherman has attained the highest honors which can be bestowed upon any man by the American people. He is aware of this. On the contrary John Sherman, while he had great honors bestowed on him, has seen honors beyond and above those which he has enjoyed. As long as John Sherman was in the field, or until he had reached the fruition of his ambition, his brother, the general, would not allow, even by implication his name to be presented, used or whispered. Now it is certain that John Sherman does not stand the slightest show of being more than mentioned. At this juncture the friends of General Sherman are in no way antagonizing the interests of his brother John. When the American people see fit to honor W. Tecumseh Sherman, as a candidate for the nomination of president of the United States, he will not decline the honor. Now, mind," continued Colonel Dayton, "General Sherman is not seeking the nomination, but his friends have been assured that a large number of delegates will support him in case it is known that he would not decline."

NEWSPAPER COMMENTS.

The Times says: The belief is stronger than ever that neither Blaine nor Arthur can be nominated. The Blaine men offered Logan the vice-presidency to combine his forces. The offer was refused. It further says that Arthur is practically out of the race unless the failure of the independent movement brings Edmunds and Hawley's votes to him. The Logan men claim Arthur's southern vote after the first ballot, while the Edmunds men expect his vote in full, if transferred. The Sherman men also claim strong help from Arthur's forces.

Tilden Settles the Matter.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Evening Star prints the following:

Some days ago Representative Dorsheimer, of New York, wrote to Charles A. Dana, editor of the Sun, urging him to call upon Mr. Tilden and ascertain positively what he intended to do with the question of nominating him for president. Last Friday Mr. Dorsheimer went to New York and saw Mr. Dana, when the latter reported that he had visited Mr. Tilden, and had submitted to him all the arguments presented in Dorsheimer's letter. After listening patiently Mr. Tilden replied that he had not wavered an instant in his purpose to forbid the use of his name. He then showed to Mr. Dana a letter written by himself, in which, in terms most positive, emphatic and unequivocal, he not only refused the use of his name, but declared that he would not accept the nomination if tendered him; that he would not be a candidate under any circumstances. "I wrote that letter," said Mr. Tilden to Mr. Dana, in substance, "two months ago, with the intention of making it public; then they persuaded me to withhold it for a time, and I shall now have it read at the state democratic convention, on June 18." Mr. Dana assured Mr. Dorsheimer that he saw and read Mr. Tilden's letter, and that there is no question of Tilden's sincerity; that he is not and will not be a candidate.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEVITIES.

The gavel used at the Chicago convention was made of woods from every state and territory in the United States and Alaska.

C. U. Andrews, a Missouri Pacific brakeman, was seriously stabbed by two negroes whom he detected robbing a freight car.

R. H. Witter, of St. Louis, has been elected president of the International typographical union, now in session at New Orleans.

The United States court at Louisville gives John W. Carman judgment for $11,000 damages against the steamer Charles Morgan.

Six persons were killed and seventy injured, some fatally, by a train plunging down an embankment near Salisbury, England, Tuesday night.

Grand Duke Louis of Hesse is likely to see the end of his matrimonial complications through an arrangement entered into with Madam Kohalmi.

Nearly every county in Georgia elected delegates to the state democratic convention, and three-fourths of them are instructed for Tilden, and none otherwise.

William Wallace, president of the Strandsburg, Pa., bank, has failed for $200,000. The bank anticipates a run, as the president took an early train for New York.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The committee on platform announced that they were ready to report. The chairman called Galusha Grow to the chair as the platform was being read by Mr. Kinstry. There were interruptions of applause at the points approving the president's administration, declaring that duties on imports should be made not for revenue only, and claiming inadequate protection for ship husbandry and at other references.

PLATFORM.

The republicans of the United States, in convention assembled, renew their allegiance to the principles upon which they have triumphed in every successive presidential election, and congratulate the American people on the attainment of so many results in legislation and administration by which the republic has been saved from ruin, and the nation benefited, the safeguard of liberty, and the embodiment of the best thoughts and highest purposes of our citizens.

The republican party has gained its strength by quick and faithful response to the needs of the people for the freedom and equality of all men; for a united nation, assuring the rights of citizens; for the elevation of labor for an honest currency; for a pure and efficient government; for integrity and accountability in all departments of the government; and in respect to the duty of leading in the cause of progress and reform.

We lament the death of President Garfield, whose sound statesmanship, long and conspicuous career in congress, gave promise of a brilliant and successful administration—a promise realized during his short period of his office as president of the United States. His distinguished success in war and peace have endeared him to the hearts of the American people.

In the administration of President Arthur we recognize a wise conservative and patriotic policy under which the country has been blessed by its remarkable prosperity and we believe his coming services are entitled to and will receive the hearty approval of every citizen.

It is the first duty of a good government to protect the rights and promote the interests of its own people. The largest diversity of industries is most productive of general prosperity and of the comforts and independence of the people. We therefore demand that the imposition of duties on foreign imports shall be made, not for revenue only, but for raising the requisite revenues for the government, such duties shall be so levied as to afford a fair and equitable return for the protection to the rights and independence of the industry against the so-called economic system.

We recognize the importance of the laboring man's full share in the national product, and we demand that the economic system be so adjusted that the laboring man shall have full and adequate protection.

We have always recommended the best money known to the civilized world and we believe that efforts should be made to unite all commercial nations in the adoption of an international standard which shall fix the relative value of gold and silver coin.

The regulation of commerce with foreign nations and between the states is one of the most important prerogatives of the general government, and the republican party declares its purpose to support such legislation as will fitly and efficiently carry out the constitutional power of congress over interstate commerce.

The principle of the public regulation of railroads is a wise and salutary one for the protection of the public interest and we favor legislation that shall prevent unjust discrimination and excessive charges in transportation and that shall secure to the people the right of free and safe travel and the establishment of a national bureau of labor for the enforcement of the laws and a wise and judicious system of general education by adequate appropriations from the national revenues, wherever the same is needed.

We believe that everywhere the protection to citizens of American birth must be secured to citizens of American birth, and we favor the settlement of national differences by international arbitration.

The republican party having its birth in a hatred of slave labor and a desire that men be truly free and equal is unalterably opposed to placing our workmen in competition with any form of servile labor, whether the importation of contract labor, whether from Europe or Asia, as an offense against the spirit of American institutions, and we pledge ourselves to sustain the present law restricting Chinese migration, and to provide such further legislation as is necessary to carry out its purposes.

The reform of the civil service, seriously begun under the republican administration, should be completed by the further extension of the reform system already established by law, to all the grades of the service to which it is applicable. The spirit and the purpose of the reform should be maintained in all executive appointments and all laws at variance with the objects of the existing reformed legislation should be repealed to the end that the power of a new institution, which has been wisely and effectively awarded.

The public lands are a heritage of the people of the United States and should be reserved as far as possible for small holdings by actual settlers. We are opposed to the sale of large tracts of these lands by corporations or individuals, especially where such holdings are in the hands of non-residents or aliens, and we will endeavor to obtain such legislation as will tend to correct this evil.

We demand of congress the speedy forfeiture of all land grants which have been made by reason of non-compliance with the conditions of incorporation, and in all cases where there has been no attempt in good faith to perform the condition of such grants.

The thanks of the American people are due to the Union soldiers and sailors of the late war, and the republican party stands pledged to suitable pensions for all who were disabled, and for the widows and orphans of those who died in war.

The republican party favors a policy which shall keep us from entangling alliances with foreign nations, and which gives us the right to expect that foreign nations shall refrain from meddling in American affairs. The policy which seeks peace can trade with all powers, but especially with those of the western hemisphere. We demand the restoration of our navy to its old time strength and efficiency, that it may in any sea protect the rights of American citizens and the interests of American commerce, and we call upon congress to remove the burdens under which American shipping has been depressed, so that it may again be free to compete with the world's navies on a level with the most powerful.

Kelly, of Ohio, from the committee on resolutions, then presented the following report: Resolved, That it is the duty of congress to protect the rights of the territories, and to preserve the integrity of the Union, and to remove the burdens under which American shipping has been depressed, so that it may again be free to compete with the world's navies on a level with the most powerful.

Hob. Jesse L. Williams called on his friend, Hon. Joseph E. McDonald, this morning. When Mr. Williams was surveying the Wabash and Erie canal Senator McDonald was roadman for him. Both gentlemen pleasantly chatted about the pioneer days to their friends, at the Avenue house.

Hon. Joseph E. McDonald and the other distinguished guests from abroad were the center of a group of Fort Wayne friends this morning at the Avenue house. Mr. McDonald said to THE SENTINEL interviewer that he believed John Sherman would be nominated at the Chicago convention.

Tuesday morning it appeared as if the pay car of the Wabash railroad company would not arrive at Chicago, and that the men who have not received any pay for their labor would again strike. Toward noon, however, their fears were dispelled, as the long and earnestly looked for car made its appearance at the yards on Forty-third street, and yesterday the men received their pay in full.

J. B. Harper returned from the Chicago convention this morning.

Messrs. Bass, Simons and Fleming Offer to Sell Their Water Works Right in the Canal and St. Joe River--The Committee Meeting Yesterday.

Yesterday the mayor, city attorney, water works committee, and board of water works trustees met representatives of the canal and water right in the St. Joe river in the afternoon and a lengthy consultation followed.

Messrs. Bass, Simons and Fleming proposed to sell to the city of Fort Wayne forever the water right of the feeder canal and the privilege of a supply from any point in the St. Joe river for $15,000. The money is to be paid in five years on a lease plan, with the agreement that after the last payment the water right is to become the property of the city. This happy solution of a vexatious question THE SENTINEL is pleased with, because it gives to the city the best and cleanest water in the St. Joe river, through the feeder canal, with the privilege to lay pipes to the St. Joe river if the city ever desires to do so. All this is obtained for the nominal sum of $15,000. All condemnations are avoided and tedious law suits abated. No one will deny that this bargain saves the people of Fort Wayne $100,000.

THE SENTINEL representative interviewed Prosecutor Dawson to-day, relative to the silly talk that the grand jury had been asked to condemn the canal feeder. Mr. Dawson said the grand jury had not been approached and would under no circumstances touch a subject outside their province. Mr. Dawson said he believed the gossip supply the idle talk of two men who imagine that the authorities could remove a dam worth thousands of dollars where their few adjoining acres are worth pennies. Mr. Dawson would like to hear some one say they would blow the dam up, as he would be an excellent subject for the grand jury and penitentiary.

The Milwaukee Club Succeeded in Winning a Game--Some Amusement Again--Other League Games.

The Milwaukee and Fort Wayne clubs played their last ball game of the first series yesterday and the visitors left the diamond victorious. The Milwaukee played hard, while the home tossers did their usual somnambulistic act. The Wisconsin club played no better game yesterday than on any previous occasion and would have been defeated handsomely if a little life had been pounded into our boys.

The following score is official from Louis Schroeder:

FAVORED BY FORTUNE.

How Two Citizens of Fort Wayne Tempted the Fickle Goddess and Got There--Only the Brave Deserve to "Win Out."

The Gazette, some time ago, mentioned the fact that Byron T. Holmes, a Pittsburg engineer, and James Fox, the well known coal dealer, both of this city, were blessed with good luck by investing in Louisiana lottery tickets. Each bought one-fifth of ticket No. 33,147 in the Louisiana State lottery. The gentlemen paid $1 each for the tickets, and the number took the fourth capital prize of $5,000, drawn on April 8.

A Gazette reporter saw Messrs. Holmes and Fox the other day, and they informed our representative that the money was promptly paid to them, being sent via the Pacific Express company, of New Orleans. B. W. Cason, agent. Messrs. Holmes and Fox, while well-to-do citizens, are not overburdened with the world's goods, and their windfall is most acceptable. Both are very enthusiastic regarding the integrity and honesty of the managers of the Louisiana State Lottery company, and propose to regularly invest in tickets each month, as they have done in months past. Fort Wayne has been struck by lottery lightning a great many times, and the monthly demand for tickets is very large in the city and surrounding towns.—Fort Wayne (Ind.) Gazette, May 5.

Dr. Thayer was exonerated by the coroner from all blame in the death of the young woman, Rice, at his hospital.

"Eureka! I have found it!" Happy the man who suddenly finds a long lost treasure, and this is how Mr. W. C. Field, of 1232, Cedar avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, felt when, after suffering for thirty years with rheumatism, he found Athliphores. It was what he had been looking for, and now his joints are free from pain and he recommends it to any one suffering from those twin diseases, rheumatism and neuralgia.

A Remedy for Lung Diseases.

Dr. Robert Newton, late president of the Electric college, of the city of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures consumption, and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

The Decatur Fire.

THE SENTINEL contained an article on Tuesday in regard to a destructive fire at Decatur. The particulars are as follows: Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock D. O. Jackson's planing mill and stirrup factory caught fire from a spark. The building is three stories high, and there being a strong wind, in a short time it was entirely enveloped with flames. The fire spread to the lumber yard adjacent, and from there to the residence of Louis Springer, which was totally destroyed. A tenement house opposite, belonging to John King, was also burned to the ground. At one time there were six or eight houses on fire, some of them six squares from the factory. A general conflagration was expected, but by the heroic efforts of the citizens it was prevented.

D. O. Jackson's planing mill is a total loss, $10,000. Louis Springer's loss, $900. John King's house, loss $100. Indiana House damaged $100.
